

FIRST MESSAGE TO THE POINT

President Taft Calls Attention Of Congress To Immediate Revision Of The Tariff.

TO FOLLOW INAUGURAL ADDRESS

Suggests That His Outline Of What Was Needed By Country Needs No Repetition---Bill Will Be Introduced Tomorrow, It Is Expected.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, D. C., March 10.—President Taft this morning sent to Congress his first message. It dealt directly with the tariff and the proposed changes to accomplish which Congress was convened in extra session. It was short for a President's message and directed the members of Congress to read his inaugural address to find his ideas as to what should be done in regard to the revision of the tariff.

Means Business
He impressed upon Congress the necessity for immediate action and not prolonging the deliberations beyond an ordinary length of time. It is a strong document and one which deals directly with the question of the tariff. In brief it is as follows: Being addressed to the Senate and House of Representatives, he conveyed Congress in this extra session in order to enable it to give its consideration to a revision of the Dingley tariff act. The conditions affecting the production, manufacture and business generally have so changed in the last twelve years as to require a readjustment and revision of the import duties imposed by that act. More than this, the present tariff act, with other sources of the government's revenue, does not furnish income enough to pay the authorized expenditures each year. By July 1st next the excess expenses over the receipts for the current fiscal year will equal a hundred million dollars.

UNIVERSITY HAS "SLICKEST LOBBY"

THIS IS THE WAY IN WHICH IT IS CHARACTERIZED.

NUMEROUS BILLS ARE IN

Which Means Much for the Future of the University as a State Institution.

Madison, Wis., March 10.—"The slickest legislative lobby that ever came down the pike," is the characterization made by Assemblyman H. E. Roethe of Racine, describing in a recent debate the ingenious and effective methods used by the university faculty and regents to get passed the numerous bills carrying appropriations for the University of Wisconsin. While this characterization was startling, members of the legislature are now commenting upon the fact that it was true, and that the university legislative organization of today is stronger than the so-called brewery lobby which is roasting the strong public demand for a county option law, stronger even than the railroad lobby of years ago, of which it was said that no bill could be passed without the approval of the railroad lobby.

The university appropriation bills are scheduled for a hearing tomorrow and members of the legislature are receiving letters from former university students pleading for ample money grants to the university. The alumni of these letters is disclosed in a circular letter prepared by Regent J. P. Trotman of Milwaukee and President Van Hise of the university, sent by the university mailing bureau to every graduate of the university in the state, telling what the university desires and asking the alumni to write their members of the legislature urging support and liberality. The university now enjoys an annual state income of approximately $1,000,000 besides special purpose appropriations. The two-sevenths of a mill tax for the university is proposed to be increased to three-eighths of a mill. The $200,000 special educational improvement appropriation is proposed to be increased to $200,000 and made continuous for seven years. The $20,000 annual correspondence school income is proposed to be increased to $100,000 a year. The university maintains a press in the department which sends to all the papers of the state news matter in advertisement of the university and support of its bills. The attitude of legislators generally is of generosity for the university, but not a few are becoming uneasy on account of the persistence and long-rolling activities of the university appropriation propaganda.

"In presenting to the legislature the needs of the university, we rely, in large measure, upon the active as well as the moral support of our alumni, so the great work our university is doing for the state may not be diminished or impaired from lack of sufficient funds," says Mr. Trotman in his letter.

Accompanying the letter of Mr. Trotman is a several-page article by President C. R. Van Hise of the university entitled "Much has been done by the state for the university, much more remains to be done." The president then takes up a full discussion of the university bills, introduced in the assembly by T. W. Braden and in the house by M. J. Cleary. This bill provides that the two-sevenths of a mill tax be increased to a three-eighths of a mill tax. He explains that this means to the taxpayer an additional cost per annum of somewhat less than nine cents on each one thousand dollars of assessed valuation. This increase is needed to enlarge the buildings of the university, establish a course for the training of teachers, the inauguration of a hygiene laboratory and giving additional salaries to the instructors and professors.

The bill further provides that the permanent educational improvement fund of $200,000 annually for five years shall be enlarged to $200,000 a year and to be extended to seven years. This the president declares is badly needed that the following buildings may be constructed or improved: Forest laboratory, biology building, building for the training of teachers, new wing to the present engineering building or a new building, new horticultural building, additions to dairy buildings, additional wing to the library building, wing of chemical building, drill hall at Camp Randall, new pumping plant, completion of tunnels and equipment of central heating plant and a building for political economy, history and sociology. The president refers to the fact that men's and women's dormitories are needed and then discusses that Lockney and Culbertson bills to increase the appropriation for university extension from $20,000 annually to $100,000. The latter asks the friends of the university to use their best efforts in behalf of these measures.

It is understood that the new tariff bill will be presented tomorrow in the House, the delay in presentation being lack of time to secure the approval of the new republican members of the Ways and Means committee to certain provisions.

Edward D. Winslow of Illinois was nominated this morning for the consul generalship at Stockholm, his name being sent to the Senate by President Taft.

don't then takes up a full discussion of the university bills, introduced in the assembly by T. W. Braden and in the house by M. J. Cleary. This bill provides that the two-sevenths of a mill tax be increased to a three-eighths of a mill tax. He explains that this means to the taxpayer an additional cost per annum of somewhat less than nine cents on each one thousand dollars of assessed valuation. This increase is needed to enlarge the buildings of the university, establish a course for the training of teachers, the inauguration of a hygiene laboratory and giving additional salaries to the instructors and professors.

FINE SPEAKING AT EDGERTON CONTEST

Declamatory and Oratorical Contest Was First to Be Held in New High School.

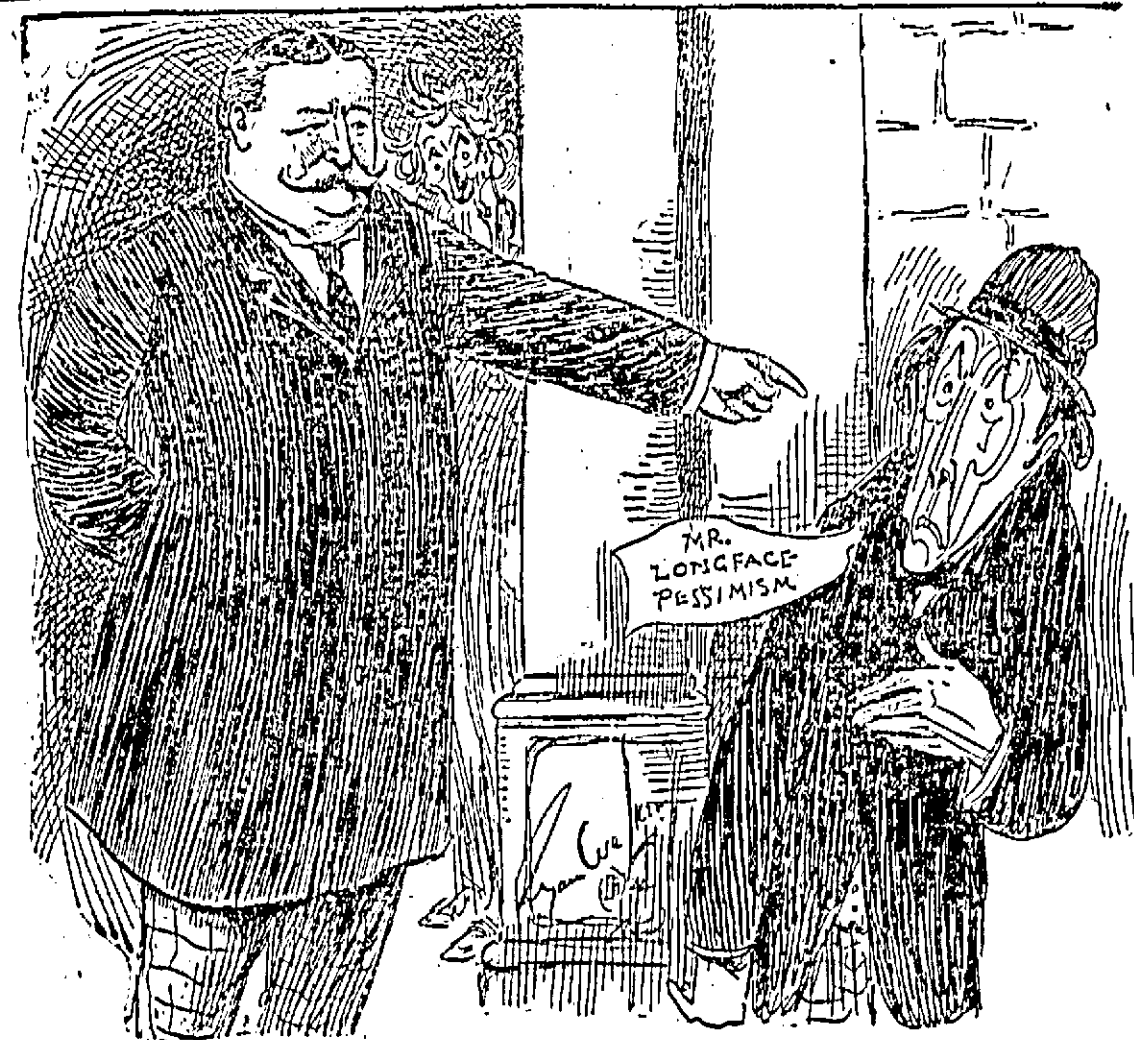

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Edgerton, March 10.—The high school declamatory contest was held at the Child high school "at evening" and the assembly room was packed to its capacity. The following program was given by representatives from the different classes: The Man with One Talent, Linton Girard; A Plan for Cuba, Henry Morley; Brother Wolf Says Grace, Jessica North; The Hundred and One, Jessie McInnis; A Christian Sabbath, Nora McCarthy; How Shiloh's Prayer Was Answered, Edith Williams. The following decision was rendered: Henry Morley, first; Linton Girard, second; for the boys; Jessica North, first; and Jessie McInnis, second, for the girls.

Mrs. Chas. Leary, who has been spending several days with friends here, returned to her home in the country yesterday. Mrs. Leary has but recently recovered from a very serious illness.

The friends of Mrs. D. I. Wilson will be pleased to learn that she is improving rapidly from her operation. The New Century club, of which she is a member, met with her last evening.

The sixteen-foot launch hull purchased by James Keller at Fond du Lac has arrived and will soon be fitted out with an engine owned by Eugene Painter, making a partnership boat.

PRESIDENT GOING TO NEW-YORK CITY

William H. Taft Will Take His First Trip Out of Town on Wednesday Next.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., March 10.—Day after tomorrow President Taft will take his first trip out of town since his inauguration. He is going to New York to fulfill several engagements made some time ago and he plans to remain in the metropolis two days.

On Thursday afternoon the President will be the principal speaker at exercises to be held in Carnegie hall in memory of Grover Cleveland. This date will be the anniversary of the late President's birth. Mayor McClellan will preside at the exercises and the speakers will include Chief Justice Taft and Governor Hughes. In addition to the President. Thursday evening the President will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be given by the Yale alumni society of New York. A year ago Mr. Taft accepted an invitation to be the guest of the Yale alumni in the winter. The pressure on his time, however, made it necessary that the engagement be postponed. The Yale alumni were glad to receive his request for a postponement, since it turned out that by doing so they would entertain a President instead of a President-elect. The dinner is to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria. It is expected that something like a thousand Yale alumni will be present.

WORLD RECORDS MAY BE BROKEN

New York Athletic Club Holds Its Annual Indoor Meet in Madison Square Garden Tonight.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, March 10.—Some record-breaking performances are expected at the annual indoor meet of the New York Athletic club in Madison Square Garden tonight. All the prominent athletes in the metropolitan district, in addition to many of the best known men from out of town, will be seen in the eighteen events which make up the program.

The five-mile invitation race will be one of the star attractions of the night. The restriction of this race to invitation entries is an innovation, but the purpose is to bring together the best men at that distance from all parts of the country. Besides the five-mile, the 1,000-yard race will also be an invitation event, and in this will be seen such noted runners as Shepard, Harry Glawing and Paul Philgrim.

The big attraction in the relay races will be the inter-club five-mile event between the Boston Athletic association and the New York Athletic club.

LAYMEN ARE NOW IN PENNSYLVANIA

Many Delegates And Distinguished Speakers Are Attending Missionary Convention at Harrisburg.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Harrisburg, Pa., March 10.—With an attendance including many educators, divines and other men of prominence, the laymen's missionary convention of the reformed church in the United States assembled in the Salem reformed church in this city today for a session of three days. The attendance of delegates and visitors totals over 500, which is expected to be increased by numerous late arrivals. An attractive program of sermons, addresses and discussions has been prepared for the convention. Prominent among the speakers to be heard are Rev. J. Campbell White, the Rev. Dr. A. Vance of Orange, N. J., Horace Anthony of Xenia, Ohio, and the Rev. William Twine, president of Mercersburg academy.

MYSTERY IN THE POPE'S ILLNESS

OFFICIAL BULLETINS BELIEVED TO BE MISLEADING.

CAUSE OF SPECULATION

There is No Chance That Plus Successor Can Be Anyone Other Than an Italian Cardinal.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., March 10.—The cable once again brings the information that the health of Pope Pius X. is causing some concern in Vatican circles, though the official bulletins issued are always the same—that the Holy Father is suffering only from a slight cold. If the bulletins are true, the Italians ask, why is there so much mystery about the Pope's illness? They suspect that Pius X. is really suffering from some serious disease which the doctors are striving to conceal.

The Pope is in his seventy-fifth year. Within a few weeks after he was elected to the chair of St. Peter he was confined to his bed by illness, and since then his health has been precarious. That sickness have been so frequent, his condition is regarded as serious. It is evidenced by the fact that leading newspapers in Europe have of late begun to indulge in speculation regarding his possible successor on the Papal throne.

Among the members of the Papal legation and others in Washington who are qualified to gauge the probabilities of the situation, the prediction that has been uttered frequently of late of the almost certain accession to the Papacy of some ecclesiastical not of Italian birth when death shall remove Pius X. receives no consideration whatever. The intrusiveness, or, as it is otherwise often called, the ultramontane element, is the one which will rule in Rome when the next Pope is elected.

The intrusiveness are unquestionably opposed to the selection of a foreigner as head of the church. If there were really anything in the theory of a foreign Pope the United States might be more likely to supply the man for the place than any other country, because it is free from the international rivalries which affect the various European powers. Germany would object to a French Pope and France to either an English or German one. The policy of the Vatican is to conciliate all countries and to avoid all complications. But for this fact—and were a foreigner at all possible—it might seem more at the present time there is no English Cardinal upon whom the honor could be conferred.

The chances for the selection of a foreigner as Pope are even more remote now than at the time of the election of Pius X. for the Italian majority in the Sacred College is larger now than at any time within the past century. Thirty-one votes out of fifty-three in an election which requires a two-thirds majority have a preponderating influence. The minority can only instruct. If instruction were possible, among emulations, the Italian majority is stronger in numbers, but it is stronger still in influence. A score of Italian Cardinals reside in Rome and direct all the affairs of the Papacy. As heads of congregations they have the power exercised elsewhere by cabinet ministers. Their views are carried out by Italian subordinates. All the Papal nuncios are Italian, depending from an Italian Cardinal secretary of state. The majority of the Vatican officials are Italians, from the high chamberlain of the apostolic palace to the sweeper of the Vatican staircases. All these people, with their influence, which is stronger, have nothing to gain and everything to lose from a foreign successor to Pius X.

Here with Subpoenas: Sheriff John P. Hallbach was here from Madison last night to serve subpoenas on Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, Walter Taylor, and a Mr. Clements to appear as witnesses at the Capital City when the case against Edward Flower is called for trial next Monday.

STEEL TIES WILL BE RECOMMENDED

A. R. E. & M. of W. Association Is to Boost For Conservation of Timber Resources.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Ill., March 10.—The American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way Association, which assembled in annual convention at the Auditorium Hotel today, intends to employ its influence with the railroads to induce the latter to cooperate actively with the national conservation committee with a view to protecting the timber supply of the country and increasing it. To this end a special committee appointed by the association has prepared a report recommending that steel ties be adopted wherever practicable and that the timber be chemically treated so as to lengthen their life. It is further recommended by the committee that experiment be made to ascertain the efficacy of concrete ties, that measures be taken by the railroads to reduce the number of forest fires and that owners be encouraged by replanting or by reproduction.

The cause for the recommendations on the part of the association is to be found in the growing emergency which confronts the railroads with respect to securing railroad ties. Each year the increasing scarcity of the timber adds millions to the cost of maintaining railroad track and the price of railroad ties is rapidly approaching the prohibitive.

MISS SUSAN M'COOK AND PETER A. JAY

Were Wedded in New York Today—Groom Is First Secretary of American Embassy in Japan.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, March 10.—A wedding of note in this city today was that of Miss Susan Alexander McCook, daughter of Colonel John J. McCook and Mrs. Cook, and Peter Augustus Jay, first secretary to the American embassy in Japan. The wedding was attended by a number of relatives and friends of the two families from Washington, Boston, Philadelphia and other cities. Mr. and Mrs. Jay plan to depart immediately for Tokyo. Colonel McCook, father of the bride, is of the famous "Fighting McCooks," being one of eight brothers who served with distinction in the Civil war. Mr. Jay, the bridegroom, is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1900. For a number of years he has held the office of first secretary to the American legation at Tokyo.

ENJOYING PROBE OF CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

Said That One Senatorial Candidate Had Left the State and That State Official Is on a "Foot."

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., March 10.—Information indicating that one senatorial candidate has left the state to avoid being called to testify further, and that a state official has been on a "foot" for several days and consequently unable to testify, and that all candidates paid the freight on local campaigns to advance their own interests, and that democrats were hired for good pay to work for various republican candidates, was developed before the senatorial investigation committee today. Assemblyman Roethe proposed a vote of thanks to Wisconsin members of congress for standing up against Speaker Cannon and the house of representatives rules. The senate today concurred in the assembly resolution to change the constitution to raise the salary of the members of the legislature from $500 to $1,000. This passed both houses two years ago and now goes to the people.

Special Day: Today being the third Tuesday in the month, it was special term day for the month of March, in the county court.

UNION OF PRESBYTERIAN BRANCHES DECLARED LEGAL

And All Property Belonging To Cumberland Organization Will Go To United Church.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Dallas, Texas, March 10.—Requests for copies of the decision just rendered by the Supreme Court of Texas in the case styled William Clark et al. versus G. W. Brown et al. are being received from Presbyterian leaders throughout the country. The decision in effect declares that the union between the Cumberland Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Church of the United States was lawful and properly effected, and that all property formerly belonging to the Cumberland church is now the property of the united church.

The case originated in the town of Jefferson, this state, where the Cumberland church sued to recover property which the united church claimed as its own through the act of union. The district court's verdict was for the defendants, the United States church, as it is called. The Sixth district appellate court reversed that judgment, deciding for the plaintiff's the Cumberland church.

The opinion recites the facts covering the breaking away of the Cumberland church from the parent church in 1810, the subsequent attempts at reunion, which were consummated in 1896, and showing that the reunion was consummated in strict accordance with the constitution, and is therefore binding upon all the members of the church. The two contentions of the plaintiffs, that the obnoxious sections of the confession of faith of the United States church, which were the primary cause of the breaking away, have not been eliminated, and second, that the union may take part in the proceedings of the parent church, are not considered jurisdictional to decide these questions, and that it has therefore decided them. The second motion, relating to the effect of the union upon the property of the Cumberland church, is answered thus:

"The deed for the property was made to the trustees of the Cumberland Presbyterian church at Jefferson, Texas. It expressed no trust or limitations. It follows, we think, as a natural and proper conclusion, that the church to which the deed was made still owns the property, and that whatever body is identified as being the church to which the deed was made must still hold the title."

"The local church was not disorganized by the lack of union. It retained intact as a church, losing nothing but the name 'Cumberland' from its name. Being a part of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, the church was by the union incorporated into the Presbyterian Church of the United States in America. The plaintiff in error and those who recognize the authority of the Presbyterian Church of the United States in America are entitled to the possession and use of the property sued for."

years more, his colleague, Robert M. La Follette, the man who was behind the savage and bitter fight to prevent his taking his seat, presented his credentials and actually waited with him to the desk of the Vice-President where he signed the roll and took the oath of office. Stephenson is now Senator in fact and still some of the members of the legislature are continuing the examination at Madison with some vain hope of either being able to unearth something they can use against him either themselves or through their lord and master, Robert M. La Follette. In other words, the state is paying a hundred dollars a minute to obtain campaign material for La Follette to use in his campaign two years from now and topics for his Chautauque address for many years to come.

DENTAL TRUTH

Mr. J. F. Murphy and wife, R. R. No. 7, from up near Evansville, were in recently to see the Dentist.

Both had teeth extracted. Mr. Murphy got rid of seven teeth, and Mrs. Murphy about the same number. Both swear that Dr. Richards "Never hurt me a particle." Mrs. Murphy says she would come a thousand miles to Dr. Richards before she would go to any other Dentist.

If you are neighbors of these good people, just ask them as to the truth about whether

"Dr. Richards hurts—or not."

LOCAL WATER CASE MOST INTERESTING

Information from Madison Relative to the Hearing Before the Railway Commission.

At the hearing of the complaint of the city of Janesville against the Janesville Water Company, before the Railway Rate Commission yesterday several important features were brought out. The case is a question of jurisdiction of the railway commission and includes the consideration of the federal constitutional provision of protection of obligations of contract. Mr. Maxfield, city attorney, made the argument for the city and Mr. Ilyzer of Milwaukee was attorney for the Water Company. Question of jurisdiction of the commission to decide a matter which carries with it a special provision of the legislature in the shape of a law, passed while John W. Blaine was a member of the legislature, which gave the city the right to enter into a contract with the Janesville Water Company was raised by Mr. Ilyzer as an objection to the commission having any right of jurisdiction. He stated that if the decision was adverse to the water company an appeal would be taken to the federal court on the federal rights relative to contracts. To the statement of Mr. Maxfield that the Water Company had broken its contract with the city relative to the depth of a certain well, Mr. Ilyzer stated that the original well was of the required depth but that perhaps a later well was not so deep. It was taken several weeks for the commission to reach a decision on the question owing to the points at issue.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

F. & A. M.: Regular communication of Western Star Lodge No. 14, F. & A. M., at Masonic Temple at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Visiting brethren invited.

Paid Taxes: The final tax returns from several townships were turned over to County Treasurer A. Y. Church by the city treasurer. Yesterday was the last day for them to make their final returns, but a number have not yet done so. Those who turned in their collections yesterday were: W. C. Miller, town of Center; C. D. Howarth, town of Harmony; Paul Gafke, town of Beloit; W. C. Schofield, town of Fulton; B. W. Little, town of Janesville; J. W. Frost, town of La Prairie; L. L. Reese, town of Lima; M. A. Richardson, town of Milton; H. H. Dickerson, town of Spring Valley; and V. C. Holmes, of the town of Union.

Repairing Alarm Wires: Chief Klein of the fire department and his electricians have been busy for some time past repairing worn-out wires and examining the connections and overhauling the city fire alarm system. There are about forty miles of these wires about the city and the work will be continued until late in the spring. About five miles of wire will be used for repairing the lines.

Stores to Open: The agreement to close the stores Wednesday nights during the winter months is now fulfilled and the stores will be open until further notice.

Citizenship Applications: Two more applications for citizenship papers have been filed with the clerk of court, and will come before the circuit court during the June term. The applicants are Charles P. Wussow, an Edgerton tobacco buyer and native of Hamburg, Germany, and William Schoenfeldt of Edgerton, a native of Schoenwald, Prussia. All who expect to have their petitions considered during the June term must file applications not later than March 25.

Exhibit Opened Today: The exhibit which the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association is sending through the state for the education of the people in the fight against the dread disease, has arrived in the city and was opened to the public this afternoon at half-past two o'clock. The charts will be shown and explained every day this week. Tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock there will be a special talk to the high school students and tomorrow evening Dr. Dearholt of Milwaukee will deliver a lecture on the subject.

FOR RENT.

The premises just vacated by Park or Pen Company are for rent; suitable for light manufacturing, three floors. Apply to Thos. S. Nolan, 311-313 Jackson Building, city.

A GOOD STORE FOR RENT.

For the first time in 25 years there is no grocery store in the white block on River street. A good trade is waiting there now for somebody. See Frank Douglas, the hardware man, or P. Norcross.

Mythic Workers

There will be a card party after our meeting tonight.

J. P. HAMMARLUND, Sec'y.

OVER $12,000 COLLECTED BY COUNTY TREASURER

In Settlements With a Number of the Town Treasurers of the County Yesterday and Today.

Over $12,000 has been turned over to the county treasurer by the town treasurers within the past two days. The visiting officials yesterday included the Messrs. Frost of La Prairie, Howarth of Harmony, Holmes of Union, Reese of Lima, Ole Svaere of Spring Valley, Nichols of Porter, Dickerson of Edgerton, Richardson of the town of Milton, Scofield of Fulton, Miller of Center, Gafke of the town of Beloit, Little of the town of Janesville and Townsend of Magnolia. Peter Lauchner, treasurer of the town of Clinton, and Charles Larson, treasurer of the village of Clinton, were here today. They were accompanied by W. L. Harshbarger who has assisted in the turning over of the taxes for 22 years.

Warehouse Declarations: Under Chap. 251 of the laws of 1899, owners of warehouses who wish to issue negotiable certificates or receipts for commodities on hand, must annually file with the register of deeds written declarations describing the premises, joint interests, if any, and so forth. George M. Decker has placed such a document on file. It gives a full account of his intended occupancy of the Friedman iron-clad cannery building at the intersection of South Post street with the C. M. & P. S. tracks.

4TH WARD IN BELOIT NOT TO BE DIVIDED

Common Council in Line City Turned Down Proposition to Split the Ward.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Beloit, Wis., March 16.—A resolution providing for the division of the Fourth Ward into two precincts, was turned down by the council last evening. The maximum vote in the Fourth ward was found to be only 671 and as a voting machine is used there, it was thought unnecessary to split the ward. The division would have brought an additional expense of about $100 to the election.

The council has requested that Chief of Police Qualman report to them any violations of the law by saloonkeepers and at the meeting last night he stated that he had found nothing irregular in their conduct, but recommended that an ordinance be passed which would prevent saloonkeepers from scribbling out their places of business on Sunday.

An ordinance was also passed which will make Beloit hens spend their lifetime in the coop. A fine of not less than $5 nor more than $10 will be assessed from every chicken-owning who allows his chickens to stray from his own property. The coop must be kept clean and be subject to the inspection of the city health officer. All jail dealers must keep a record of all purchases made by them according to the ordinance which was passed last evening. Included in the record must be the price paid, the day and hour, the name and address of the person from whom the articles are purchased and the dealers are not allowed to buy anything from minors except rags.

JUGULAR VEIN OF ENGINEER SEVERED

Flying Glass Completely Cut the Vein of Brave Engineer Who Stayed at His Post.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Marshfield, Wis., March 16.—Another chapter of unusual interest was added today to the remarkable case of Jas. Dolmore, the hero engineer who stayed with his engine last week for a distance of twenty miles with his throat dangerously cut from flying glass from his cab window when it was learned that the jugular vein was completely severed. It was first reported that the large vein had not been cut, but since he had been brought to his home in this city the real fact has been brought out. His son, John Dolmore, a doctor from Minneapolis, was at his bedside and considered his case a remarkable one. He is gaining slowly and his recovery is certain. It is estimated he lost three quarts of blood.

SELECTED OFFICERS FOR THE THIRD TERM

Laurean Society Held Election at Meeting After School Last Evening—College Agent Spoke.

Last evening at a special meeting held after school the members of the Laurean society of the high school held their regular election of officers. At the beginning of each term a new set of officers are chosen to act for that term and the girls try to put in those who have not served during the past term. Those who were chosen last evening were:

President—Clara Haddock.
Vice-President—Dorothy Wilcox.
Secretary—Mildred Sutherland.
Treasurer—Katherine Jeffris.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Hattie Turner.

The little, Miss Foley, was chosen at the beginning of the school year and serves until the close of school.

Beloit Man Spoke
This morning at the opening exercises Mr. Arnold, the agent of Beloit college, delivered an address before the school on college life, his topic being "The Higher Education." In his remarks he showed to the pupils the need of a college education in securing a high place in all lines of activity, business, science, literature, and the professions. He is here today to secure students for Beloit college and talked with several of the seniors, who are considering continuation of the studies which they are taking up in the high school courses.

Drop Individuality.
Some women and some men remind one of springs coiled around themselves. Every accident they turn back to themselves, everything is a fancied slight, all activities center about their likes and dislikes. If they could forget their own inconsequence they would meet with greater happiness in life.

NOT SEEKING WAR SAYS ESPINOZA

ON THE DEFENSIVE ONLY

Explains Movement of Troops—United States is Irritated Over Treatment of Secretary of Legation Gregory by Zelaya's Government.

Washington, Mar. 15.—That his country is not seeking war with her neighboring republics, and wants only peace, was the information given by Senator Espinoza, minister from Nicaragua, in a conference with Secretary Knox yesterday. He declared the military activity in Nicaragua is only for defensive purposes, and an attack on Salvador is intended.

The minister went to the state department armed with a bundle of dispatches from his government, and spent half an hour with the secretary, during which he discussed also the Emery claim, which has been the source of dispute between the two countries for years.

Both Hope for Peace.
The secretary and the minister, after the conference, expressed the hope for a satisfactory adjustment of the claim and a peaceful solution of the whole situation.

Notwithstanding the minister's assertion of Nicaragua's peaceful intentions toward her neighbors, the administration has decided to augment the naval force in Central American waters to a total of six vessels. In addition to the Yorktown, now on route for Managua, Honduras, the armored cruiser Maryland and Washington are to remain on the west coast, the former going to Acapulco, Salvador, and the latter to Corinto.

Nicaragua Concentrates Troops.
The most significant news that reached the state department was that about 6,000 Nicaraguan troops are near the Honduran border, the chief source of activity being in the neighborhood of Corinto, where are also concentrated four gunboats and other auxiliary craft.
A feature of the situation is the state department in the manner in which John H. Gregory, the secretary of legation at Managua, who has been ordered to Washington, is being treated. From the dispatches it is gathered that the Nicaraguans are doing nothing to make his position agreeable, but that, on the contrary, there are evidences of hostility to him, and it is understood here also that some of his dispatches have not reached him as promptly as they should.

The whole situation is inexplicable and irritating to the state department, which is not disposed to act hastily and is seeking the views of the various capitals in Central America through its representatives in those places, with whom it has acquainted fully every step that has been taken.

MULE CATCHES BIG FISH.

Story Sounds "Fishy," But Animal's Owner Says It's True.
Waterbury, Conn., Mar. 15.—Gilbert
Rogers has a mule that catches fish.
For the last week Rogers, a gang of men and the mule have been harvesting ice at Reynolds bridge. The mule gave away and the mule fell into the pond. Rogers and his men had a hard time in the rescue work, but despite the excitement they noticed that the mule gave never a single bray for help.

When the animal was finally landed the reason for its silence was plain. It held in its jaws a fine pickerel 23 inches long. Rogers has the pickerel on exhibition. Tooth marks prove the truth of the story.

ASKS TO HAVE HEART PIERCED.

Wealthy Englishman Takes Precautions Against Being Buried Alive.
Duluth, Minn., Mar. 15.—Howard Gilliat, a wealthy Englishman, dreading the possibility of being buried alive, in his will, which has been filed in the probate court, placed a stipulation that a friend take proper means to determine whether or not Gilliat was dead when buried.

He instructed his friend to have a physician pierce his heart with a sharp instrument to make it certain that he would not be buried alive. Gilliat was worth $1,200,000 and lived in London. He died December 3, 1900.

WAR IN BALKANS SOON IS REPORT IN BERLIN

Private Advice Say Austria May Start Hostilities Before End of Week.

Berlin, Mar. 15.—Private advice received here from Vienna represent the situation between Austria and Serbia as one of extreme gravity. It is said in authoritative quarters that Austria will send within a few days an ultimatum to Belgrade, fixing a very short period for an answer to her representations. If the answer is unsatisfactory, it is declared, war is inevitable and may break out by the end of the week.

The Berliner Tagblatt learns that the Russian foreign minister, M. Iswolsky, has issued instructions to the Russian minister at Belgrade to warn the Serbian government to avoid carefully everything that might be interpreted as a challenge to war. Nevertheless, the Russian minister regards the danger of war as most acute.

London, Mar. 15.—Apart from the fact that the weather conditions in Europe preclude any immediate military operations, it cannot be said that the relations between Austria-Hungary and Serbia have yet reached a point where an outbreak of hostilities is probable.

Throughout the negotiations that have been going on in connection with the delicate situation in the Balkans the Austrian idea has been to force Serbia, first to acknowledge that the question of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina had passed the stage where it could be made subject to a rearrangement and, second, to take effective steps for demobilization of the troops.

The unsatisfactory side of Serbia's reply to Count Forgach's note, referring the Austro-Hungarian government to Serbia's previous commitment to the powers, is the fact that it purposely evaded these issues, thus tacitly implying that the matter has been left in the hands of the signatories of the Berlin treaty. On the other hand, it is considered a favorable indication that Serbia has not closed the door to direct negotiations with Austria on economic questions.

The latest advice from Vienna are to the effect that Austria has decided to give Serbia further time to reconsider her position. It may therefore be considered that today's developments have not greatly changed the situation for better or for worse.

She LAST VOYAGE of the DONNA ISABEL

Lady Darlington did not appear again after supper, although Celesto sat in the main cabin and waited vaguely with De Nova while he ate.
They appeared so deeply engrossed in each other that I finally took my pipe and went on deck, leaving them under the stars.

It got upon my nerves at last, and I went below, striving manfully to shake off all memory of the depressing picture. Ten minutes later I was securely braced in my bunk, so soundly sleeping I forgot to dream.

I could never tell what woke me;
some strange noise, no doubt, for I sat straight up, staring through the blackness toward the closed door. Almost at the very instant I heard the smash of glass in the main cabin. I was only partially undressed, and with one spring was at the latch, the three pitching of the yacht making me instantly apprehensive of accident. At the first glance I perceived nothing unusual under the dim light, then I saw a man sprawling on the floor, in midst of a litter of glass from a broken mirror. I leaped across toward the fellow, twisting my hand into the collar of his pea-jacket, and whirling him face upward to the light. It was Tuttle, and he shrank away from me cowering like a whipped cur, his hands thrust out, his eyes staring. It was an appalling face, ghastly, terror-stricken.

"What is it, Mr. Tuttle?" he shrieked, apparently never seeing me at all, his teeth gnashing, a foam on his lips. "I
—"

"Oh, God! Christ! Christ!" he shrieked, crashing down together on the deck.

As we struck he went suddenly limp, his fingers shaking, his eyes staring up at the light. I held him thus in my grip an instant, suspecting some trick; then, as he never moved, I drew him up until his shoulders rested against the support of a chair.

"What is it, man?" I questioned, anxiously. "What has happened? Are you sick?"

He made no response, gave not the slightest sign that he even heard me.
I poured out a glass of liquor, held it to his lips, and he gulped it down, but seemingly in a stupor.

"Come along," I said, sternly, realizing that my will must dominate his, if I would move him to action. "I am going to take you to your berth, and make you lie down. You are sick, and need rest. Get up, now."

He attempted no resistance as I lifted him, even clinging to the chair for support, his entire body shaking like a jelly fish. I braced him in through the open door, tumbled him over into the bunk, and he lay there, staring straight up with unblinking eyes, his face as yellow as parchment.
He was completely dressed for the deck, his pea-jacket buttoned to the chin, his heavy sea-boots on. I loosened the one, drew off the other, shut the door, and left him there alone.

It was clear enough he had again become the ghost, but how came he to be fully dressed, his clothing still wet with the salt spray? Breathing hard from the exertion, I glanced curiously at my watch to note the hour. Barely two o'clock. Why, it was his trick on deck; he had deserted his position to come below. The Sea Queen was rushing through the gloom with no officer on the bridge. De Nova would be in his bunk asleep. I sprang to my own room, and hastily finished dressing, fully determined on standing out Tuttle's watch on deck. As I came forth again into the main cabin, whirling a mutter about my throat, a vision in white confronted me, grasping the table to keep from falling.

"What is it, Mr. Stephens? What has happened?"

"Nothing that need in any way alarm you," and as the vessel gave a sudden lurch, and her eyes opened in apprehension, I caught her arm firmly.
"Truly, believe me, there is no danger. Mr. Tuttle has been suddenly taken ill, and I am going to relieve him on watch. You have confidence in me, have you not?"

Her eyes searched my face earnestly, the gray depths full of anxiety.

"Oh, yes."

"Then now is the time to show it.
I shall remain on deck, probably, until morning. I wish you to go back, lie down and rest. Let me assist you to return to your stateroom."

I held her closely to me, so closely
I could feel the throb of her breathing, the warmth of her flesh, realizing that she was clinging to me in utter forgetfulness. Only at the door did she draw away, slightly, yet even then with her hands clasping my arm, her hands clasping my arm, her eyes gazing directly into mine.

"You have told me all?"

"All of the slightest importance; the details can wait daylight. I ask you to confide in me now, and sleep.
May I have your promise?"

There was something mystifying in those gray eyes; I had never perceived before, and she caught her breath in a quick sob.

"Yes," she replied, simply, her lashes drooping, "you may have my promise."

On deck I discovered the yacht in-tering desperately in a heavy cross sea, the sky clear, and two men straining at the wheel. In spite of the starling, they were so bundled up that I was compelled to stare directly in their faces before I could recognize either.

"Mr. Tuttle has been taken sick and gone to his berth," I explained briefly.
"I will serve out his watch. What course have you?"

"Sou'-west by east, sir."

I glanced inquiringly at the compass, and then forward, sweeping the sea with my glasses. There was no ice in sight, but the bitter cold of the air was sufficient proof of plenty not far away.

"When did Mr. Tuttle go off?" I asked.

"About 30 minutes ago, sir."

"He never said nothing, did he, huh?"
He'd been acting queer, an' a-tellin' to himself, an' all at once he ran down the steps, an' went aft. Well, an' I figured it out as how maybe he was cold, an' wanted a drink."

At four o'clock, the sky already beginning to mist as if from thickening fog, I dispatched one of the hands aft to rout out De Nova. He came stumbling up the steps, perhaps ten minutes later, still rubbing the sleep out of his eyes, but became wide awake enough when he recognized me.

"Sacre, what was zis, Mons. Stephens? Wore was so mate?"

Crouching behind the tarpaulin out of the keen sweep of the wind, I explained in rapid detail what had occurred since he went below.

"It will probably have to be watch and watch with us, De Nova," I ended, firmly. "Tuttle is no longer fit to be left in charge of the deck. You agree to that?"

He shrugged his shoulders.

"By gar, it look like zere was noasing; else for it."

"No; it is the only way. Call me at the end of your trick. I'll look in on Tuttle again as I go below."

I did so, discovering him still upon his back, his eyes wide open, staring straight up at the deck-beams above.

CHAPTER XVI.

In Which I Again Come to Command.
Dade awoke me, the gray light of the Antarctic day streaming in through the porthole.

"I pounded on the door twice, sir," he explained, quickly. "But you were asleep, so hard I had to come in.
Something's gone wrong in Mr. Tuttle's stateroom, sir."

"Wrong? What do you mean?"

"Well, sir a gun went off in there just now, sir."

I was already upon my feet, pulling on my clothes.

"Run up on deck and ask De Nova to come down here at once. Lively now, my lad."

The two had already reached the foot of the companion stairs when I came out, and Dade had evidently made the situation clear to the mind of the crew.

"Have you been in zere, monsieur?"
he asked, anxiously.

"No, not yet, but I fear the worst, and thought it would be better for us to go together. Stand by, Dade, for we may need you."

The ex-whaleman was lying on the floor in a crouched-up heap, a revolver resting beside him, perhaps a foot from his hand. The pungent odor of powder was still in the room. We turned him over, revealing a bullet wound just in front of the ear. Beyond all doubt he had shot himself while sitting upon the edge of the bunk, and had tumbled forward, dead before he struck the deck. I glanced toward De Nova, who stood staring stolidly down at the dead man, and at Dade, almost yellow with terror, peering cautiously in through the open door.

"He is beyond further trouble," I said, solemnly. "The poor devil. Help me lift him back into his berth."

Dade held aloof, but De Nova took hold with me, and together we straightened out the body, covering it decently with a sheet. Then we passed out into the main cabin and closed the door.

"What sort of weather have we outside, Mr. De Nova?" I questioned, endeavoring to quell the beating of my heart.

"Clear an' col', monsieur, so wif no'west."

"Then we are holding our course?"

"Oul, oul," gurglingly, "but waf we do now? waf we do now?"

"Well, that depends entirely upon you and the crew," I returned, shortly.
"Mr. Tuttle is dead, beyond recall. I am the only competent navigator left on board. For the sake of my own life, as well as the safety of those women in our care, I propose assuming command. Have you anything to say?"

The crew stood motionless, grasping the edge of the table, his black eyes still fastened on Tuttle's closed door.

"Well, you had better decide," I went on, stoutly, "and anyway the only thing for us to do is to put this matter straight before the crew. Keep quiet about what has happened until after breakfast—you, too, Dade—and then have the whole crewship aft. Go on about your work until then, and keep your tongues still."

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That
No Jansville Citizens Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick.
Weak kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pain, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Don't's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Jansville proof:

Mrs. Annie Kohlhoff, living at 203
Cherry St., Jansville, Wis., says:
"Several years ago I was feeling badly on account of a disordered condition of my kidneys. I ached all over, felt miserable and at times my back ached so severely. As the kidneys accretions did not act freely, I thought possibly my kidneys needed attention and going to the People's Drug Co., I procured Don's Kidney Pills and after taking the contents of two or three boxes of this remedy, I was cured. I have never had any trouble since and know of others who have been cured by the use of this excellent remedy.
I always recommend Don's Kidney Pills and can say that I think more of them now than when I gave a statement four years ago telling of my experience with them. I hope others will give Don's Kidney Pills a trial and be convinced of their curative powers."

PARIS TELEGRAPHERS ON A GENERAL STRIKE

Telephone Girls Join Men in Battle Caused by Arbitrary Course of Official.

Paris, Mar. 15.—Few telegraph instruments are ticking in the French capital to-day and the voice of the "hello girl" is stifled. The telegraphers and telephone operators went out on a general strike last night and the police are prepared for a fight.

The resolution to strike was voted without a single dissenting voice and orders were issued immediately for the withdrawal of all operators employed in the telegraphic bureau of the department. The resolution relates that the strike action is taken as a protest against the arbitrary and tyrannical administration and that the decision was precipitated by an insult addressed by M. Simyan, under secretary of posts and telegraphs, to the officials of the association.

The girl operators employed in the telephone bureaus in the afternoon had unanimously decided to abide by the decision of last night's meeting, while 350 railway mail clerks, due to leave on outgoing trains during the course of the evening, also decided to await that decision. The strike therefore involves the various branches of the service. These branches are now more or less crippled, but by no means paralyzed. Less than a third of the railway mail clerks failed to report for duty.

London, Mar. 15.—The London morning papers are almost without news from Paris, owing to the telegraphers' strike there. There was ten-hours' delay in telegrams between London and Paris and direct telephone service ceased last night.

INDIANS DIE OF GRIP; SCOURGE CLAIMS MANY

Hunters and Trappers in MacKenzie River District Also Victims of Disease.

Winipeg, Man., Mar. 16.—Seventy-two Indians dying from the grip at Ft. Chippewyan, and more than 150 in all afflicted at the four posts in the MacKenzie river district of the Hudson's Bay Company, is the startling news brought from the far north by Angus Heabont, inspector for the Hudson's Bay Company in the MacKenzie river district, who has arrived here.

There are also other posts in the MacKenzie river district from which Heabont has not heard later than September, since which date the scourge came.

Hunters on the trail are stricken with it and trappers in the bush are suddenly seized, with fatal effects. Horrible work is being done by Hudson's Bay Company officials, by Sisters of Charity, the Protestant mission, the Royal Northwest Mounted police and by Dr. Hymer, the latter at Fort Resolution.

A symptom of the disease is a sudden weakness, and it attacks the victims in the lungs.

SLAYS CHILDREN AND SELF.
Mall Carrier at Flora, Ill., Kills Three Babies, Ends Life.

Danville, Ill., Mar. 16.—Word has been received here of a triple murder and suicide by Robert Strawser, a rural mail carrier and a former resident of this city, at Flora, Strawser gave his three children strychnine and then committed suicide by swallowing the drug. The four lifeless bodies were found by Strawser's wife.

Why the crime was committed is not known, but Strawser's wife says he was probably insane. The coroner made an investigation.

Miss Morgan to Open Restaurant.
New York, Mar. 16.—Miss Anna Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, will open a restaurant in the Brooklyn navy yard about May 1. As chairman of a committee appointed by the New York section of the National Civic Federation, Miss Morgan has just received her authorization from the government to carry out this plan, which aims to provide for the men who work in the navy yard better food at less money than they can now obtain.

Mouse Stopped Golf Match.
On Killarney golf course, near Glasgow, Scotland, a field mouse settled a match which had been carried to the nineteenth green by getting in the way of the putt. The player at first thought the ball had struck a dead leaf, but the mouse, which had been partially blinded, was easily killed and exhibited as evidence of the result of the player's not disarming.

New Tailored $25 Costume At $18.50

The hit of the season—some call them the new 3-piece suits, reproduction of high priced French novelties. The materials are superior mixtures, panamas, serges and chevrons in all the leading and favored new shades. Better buy tomorrow for in a fortnight they will not be priced so moderately.

Here's a Natty New Suit for $12.50

ONLY TWELVE DOLLARS AND FIFTY CENTS, and they have every bit as much style and beauty as you ever saw in garments at eighteen dollars.

Made of fine satin striped worsteds in black, navy blue, reseda green, and taupe, with large patch pockets, the button trimming and the circular skirt with panel front that are features of this season's fashions.

The workmanship is far above the average. The materials are of splendid quality. The jacket is lined throughout with good satin.

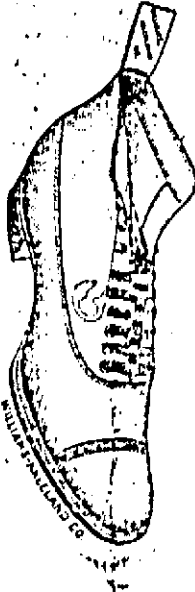

Scarcely seems that any one would try to make last summer's suit do with only $12.50 to pay for these pretty new garments with the freshness of spring.

When Facts Bear Out Figures, There is No Argument

Either Bostonian or Kneeland men's shoes will give any man the same service, an equal style, if not superior, the same satisfaction every way to those shoes which are sold at $5 to $8. There is no guess work about it, no hesitancy. We have proven to our own satisfaction through years of selling them and these same years have proven the points to the hundreds of wearers who prefer to use the difference in price—the saving—for other purposes. Why should you not know the cold, solid facts about shoe economy? If you need proof of advanced styles, fine leathers, excellence in workmanship, the showing here this spring is strong enough, big enough, varied enough to almost overwhelm and set at rest any doubt as to the ability of the makers of these shoes to successfully compete with any high grade shoes on the market.

High cuts in the handomest styles and leathers, Oxfords in the latest new ideas, tans, ox-bloods, patents and dull blacks. Everyone has an individuality worth more than the price, but always sold at $3.50 and $1.00.

Try them on your feet any time; you won't be obliged to buy if you don't like them. Every day new invoices of women's shoes and oxfords are arriving—more on the way.

50c All Silk Foulards

We recently consummated an important purchase of Cheney Bros. Foulard Silks. To begin with, they are all silk. They have excellent body, are 20 inches wide and in a beautiful line of colorings. The styles are mostly polka dots, different sizes and a few fancy patterns. All this spring's colors are well represented, such as navy blue, blue-green, Havana brown, tobacco brown, mode, soft green, old rose and black. Some have white dots and others have contrasting dots.

The mere fact of their being Cheney Bros. make means that they will give excellent service. They are the best value in silk that we have offered for many a day at the price, 50c per yard.

Women looking for a medium priced suit should surely see these foulards before the assortment is broken.
